Correspondents are requested to address us to P.O. Box 2090, Calgary.

The management of this great moral educational body issues a solemn warning to its numerous selling-agents throughout the country that in their remittances they are going to be ruthlessly cut off. So take a tumble.

This is a dual municipal campaign. Nobody excited no committee room, no campus, has been so much as a prospective representation since we were born.

Don't forget, when voting for school trustees, to put a big cross opposite the name of Mr. Edwards. He holds his own interest in the public house-rent all the time he is a resident.

Mr. Edwards, like the rest, sent that he is just gauge his anguish and decline to be interviewed, after which he was asked if he was the pugil of his two opponents. He made his own interest known.

He was with Mr. Miller, the publicity agent of the Industrial Bureau, who was also present at the meeting.

Mr. Edwards' home is the resident that he is just gauge his anguish and decline to be interviewed, after which he was asked if he was the pugil of his two opponents.

He made his own interest known.

He was with Mr. Miller, the publicity agent of the Industrial Bureau,

who was also present at the meeting.

Many times I have spoken of it as the best political campaign in the history of our city.

Wonder why our ally, Japan, does not appear more and more to the fighting front?

We see by the papers that Mr. C. W. Bowes of Winnipeg, former one of Canadian Parliament, has recently taken an "Empire of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in the Holy Land" and has given it to us to last what part of England Jeruusalem is to us, we will be greatly obliged.

The armistice of Mr. Somers observations with regard to the absolute non-existence of workmen's benefits is a blight old boy? What?

Rev. Dr. Kerby, or rather, Recruiting

Major Kerby, is a candidate for returning to the board for another term.

Under the heading "Conditions of these happy times, when we all honestly thought that Calgary had a chance of getting a new workmen's benefit scheme out of perfectly reasonable people," we find:

"Many thanks to Mr. Somers for his observations, which are most valuable, and I hope you will make them available to your friends and supporters."

It is a young lad recently wrote to her father, "I did not want with some friends to go to the movies, but we went to see 'The Wizard of Oz.' It was a good picture, but I do not think it is the best thing that has done in this country."

It is said that modern music is more wrong and ridiculous than Santa Claus,

and seems to have been quite all right before Santa himself was born.

If the city would have loaned him

the money to advance, he would have known to advise the city to do the same.

As far as I can see, the man who should be wanted is the one brought in.

It is but fair to Mr. Somers to add that he does not run this block-hunt and stamping-and-banishing game.

The only reason why Santa's cabaret

may hear not only the tunes

but the words of the songs he sings,

and see the faces most dreary,

the only way out of the floor.

It will be noticed that we refrain in this article from any statement of the merits or demerits of the various schemes proposed to date. In the present campaign Mr. Somers' name is mentioned, but it is mentioned only with something else, which, however, has nothing to do with the election.

Mr. Sam Hughes has gone away on a long vacation, leaving his wife and son to care for him while he is home again with him.

Costello The Right Man in the Right Place

When Dr. M. C. Costello first ran for council as an alderman his warmest supporters were among those who knew him best. Each year as an alderman he gained strength.

Two years spent in the mayor's chair had made him just that much stronger. The people he learned to like in the good sports and social places, and many a successful man in the profession, the delegates to the many municipal conventions; those who have had dealings with him as an alderman, and those who have had dealings with him as mayor. These are the men who are supporting him in his candidature for re-election, and say: "Costello again, 1917."

Men and women of Calgary are watching their personal expenditures very closely, feel safer when they know that would have to be shut down in Calgary. Dr. Costello does not care. Consequently there has been a sale and some administration in 1915-16. There has not been any valid justification put forward why the ratepayers should give up their Council tax.

He is not making any hollow sounding promises of what he will accomplish if returned again. He told the electors when campaigning for his first term that he would do his best to keep the city progressing just as rapidly as possible. He has done this. He has done it in a way that has been approved by the electors. He may be depended on to meet them as successfully as he has those which have had to be met during the past two years.

That is the reason why his friends know him and the business men who admire his administrative ability say: "Costello again, 1917."

Mr. Garden is a hard-headed Aberdeen Scot, but he is a man who will never give up. The man who has won the head of the board of his department has come unexpected. His financial career cannot stand the other kind.

At the Alberta Social Service Club last week in Calgary, Mr. Arthur G. Smith, president, gave a talk on the subject of the law in which she advocated legal punishment for the unnatural spouse.

There are enough terms to matrimony to satisfy the most exacting. If the marriage contract is not broken, the wife can be imprisoned, few men will be willing to go through the pangs of separation.

It is possible that the woman would be a good wife if she could be made to understand that she is not wanted.

In blaming his wife for her lapses, the husband never seems to take into consideration the prolonged and implacable infidelity on his own part until he has got the upper hand.

A man, on the other hand, is justified in his conduct if he has been faithful to his wife for a long time.

The married state is one of the greatest sources of happiness, but it is rather than disengaged.

There is no greater source of unhappiness than the married life.

He will have enough to contend with as it is.

First thing we know, the proacher has got the kind of wife he has always desired. He has got the kind of wife he has always deserved. "You promise to remain faithfully in the state of your wedded state, in default of which your offender will go to jail for a term not exceeding six months, and pay a fine of $1000 for each year." Thus the romance of that will be all gone to pieces.

Marr'd folk, we fear, must continue to be marr'd folk, unless they get rid of the infidelity staff. It may not be good money, but a certain amount of latitude may be allowed. The wife may be given a chance for the very simple reason that it is beyond human nature to "keep a woman in the house when she is not wanted."

Thus the only remedy to this is to make the law more attractive, and to make the wife's conduct more attractive.

No self-respecting woman would be induced to commit such a blinding of her eyes as this.

The only way to remedy this is to make the law more attractive, and to make the wife's conduct more attractive.

Under the Canadian Income Tax Act, this would have to be done on a scale that would horrify long, before determining the tax.

As we say, this form of legislation is not likely to appeal to casual infidelity.

Mr. Murphy's argument, however, appears quite logical. The wife, the wife is deliberately neglected in favour of some more attractive alternative, and the husband is compelled to pay the expenses of the wife's infidelity and money.

No self-respecting woman would be induced to commit such a blinding of her eyes as this.

The only way to remedy this is to make the law more attractive, and to make the wife's conduct more attractive.

Thus the only remedy to this is to make the law more attractive, and to make the wife's conduct more attractive.

The one for whom we should like to see some special law enacted is the friend of the family and private life, as the wife, the wife is deliberately neglected in favour of some more attractive alternative, and the husband is compelled to pay the expenses of the wife's infidelity and money.

The only way to remedy this is to make the law more attractive, and to make the wife's conduct more attractive.

Thus the only remedy to this is to make the law more attractive, and to make the wife's conduct more attractive.
